

Southeast Institute for Innovation in Palliative and Supportive Care (SIIPSC) at UAB

Nested within the Center for Palliative and Supportive Care (CPSC) at the University of Alabama at Birmingham (UAB), the Southeast Institute for Innovation in Palliative and Supportive Care (SIIPSC) aims to expand palliative and supportive care expertise and increase access for people living with serious illness and their loved ones in the Southeast. Southeast Institute for Innovation in Palliative and Supportive Care strives to serve as the leading regional resource center for the discovery, dissemination, education and sharing of scalable palliative and supportive care principles and practice in the southeastern U.S that is community based and culturally sensitive. The Institute is guided by the principles that all knowledge and information will be scalable, implementable, sustainable and evidence based.