CURRENT EMPLOYMENT

Indiana University Bloomington: August 2017 – Present

Dean, School of Public Health.

Provost Professor (tenured). Provost professors “have achieved local, national, and international acclaim both for their research/creative activity and for their teaching”¹ and Indiana University.

Primary Departmental Affiliation: Department of Epidemiology & Biostatistics.

Coined “It’s about knowing” as the tagline for the School of Public Health, and the extended motto “It’s about knowing. Because conjecture is good but knowing is better.” He conceived a book by the title “It’s About Knowing” written principally by Susan Brackney and co-authored by Dr. Allison (<https://publichealth.indiana.edu/research/IAK-book.html>).

◆ Distinguished Professor (2018 – current). “Distinguished Professor is a University-wide appointment, recognizes international accomplishments, is to be limited in number, and is to be recommended to the Board by the Office of the President in order to confer richly deserved prestige and honor on those selected to receive this designation” (Indiana University Policy).

My primary roles as Dean (in addition to being a faculty member) are:

- Dean within the school: This involves final fiscal, ethical, scientific, academic, and responsibility for all other activities within the school; serving as the Chief Academic Officer of the school, setting the standard for excellence in evaluation, helping to or leading the organization of visioning activities from the school, faculty, staff, and students, and participating in those activities.

- Dean outside the school but within the university: Partner, as Dean, with others outside the university: This includes engaging with other deans, vice presidents, institute and center directors within the university for initiating and stewarding cross-school, cross-campus, and other collaborative endeavors and advising the IU President, Provost, and Board of Trustees on selected matters ranging from pandemic management, to budgetary crises, to recruitment priorities, to sensitive ethical matters.
- Dean as ambassador to society at large beyond the university: I am additionally responsible for reputation-building, fundraising, alumni relations, partnership building, contract acquisitions, promoting interest among potential donors, student recruits, faculty candidates, federal and state elected officials, leaders of other universities, academic societies, federal and state agencies, foundations within and beyond the United States, and international partnership promotion. Much of my time is devoted to travel to achieve these objectives.

Selected Accomplishments as Dean:

In my first five-plus years after joining IU as the then-new dean of our relatively new School of Public Health-Bloomington, I was charged with fostering collaboration between university leadership and SPH-B to help our school metamorphize from its nascent form to an established, 21st century, nationally competitive and ranked, science-based school of public health known for its academic excellence.

A small subset of notable milestones includes:

- Annual grants & contracts expenses grew from $8 million in 2017 to $21 million in 2023.
- Extramural grant indirect cost funding grew from $1.2 million in 2017 to 4.1 million in 2023.

KEY LEADERSHIP ACTIVITIES

IN FUND-RAISING, EDUCATION, TRAINING & RESEARCH PROMOTION (selected)

- Obesity & Energetics Offerings

Distributed to over 100,000 subscribers worldwide, the Obesity & Energetics Offerings (OEOs) began informally well more than two decades ago. Today, the service is formalized and involves the distribution of approximately 100 or more titles and links to online content from the scholarly literature and other sources regarding obesity and energetics each Friday of each week. Subscription is free and the OEOs receive no commercial support. We receive enormous positive praise for this effort to elevate scholarly dialogue and inform the interested community about thought-provoking, creative, and important findings and opinions in the domain of obesity and energetics. This program grew up "organically" from Dr. Allison communicating with his colleagues and receiving their enthusiastic encouragement to continue. Dr. Allison conceived, developed, and continues to direct and serve as editor-in-chief of this activity. The OEOs serve to both educate trainees who work on producing it as well as providing an educational and informational venue for the world as a whole. Since its instantiation far more than a decade ago, not a single week has been missed despite pandemics, power outages, and any other factors going on in the world. We make sure that every Friday this opportunity to think together about obesity and energetics is shared with the world.
