

Lisa Bielamowicz, MD

Lisa Bielamowicz, MD is a healthcare strategist with deep experience advising industry executives about the future marketplace and impact on their organizations. She is the Co-Founder and former President of Gist Healthcare, a strategic advisory service providing guidance to healthcare industry leaders.

Lisa is known for being able to distill actionable insight from complex and conflicting market forces, with unparalleled understanding of healthcare markets and provider dynamics. She brings energetic, provocative discussion to every forum she leads, having advised hundreds of executive teams and boards of directors over the past two decades. She is a frequent keynote speaker, and quoted in the New York Times, Wall Street Journal, and Health Affairs.

Prior to founding Gist, Lisa was Chief Medical Officer of the Advisory Board, where she led the firm's strategy research for over a decade, and was primary author of dozens of publications on health system and physician strategy, consumer strategy, and business model transformation. She is an advisor to the Centivo board of directors, serving as a non-voting member, helping to set the organization's strategic direction.

As a physician, Lisa brings a clinical lens to her work and has a deep understanding of the dynamics of physician practice. She trained in diagnostic radiology at Johns Hopkins Hospital. She holds a bachelor's degree from Rice University and received her MD with highest honors from Baylor College of Medicine, graduating first in her class.
